A 13-year-old girl with a severe dairy allergy suffered an "immediate reaction" after just one sip of a Costa Coffee hot chocolate that was supposed to be made with soya milk, an inquest has been told.

Hannah Jacobs from Barking, east London, who had been allergic to dairy products, died within hours of sipping the drink on 8 February 2023, East London Coroner's Court heard.

Her mother Abimbola Duyile, who ordered the drink, said her "anger gave way to terror" after her child's reaction to the drink.
